She at first objected, saying that she had never traveled second class except in India. But after an inspection of the car she accepted a lower berth on the tourist sleeper. The other members of Mrs. Booth Tucker's party went into the chair car. Mrs. Kelsey, of New York, was injured most seriously by a man falling with his feet square on her chest. In his efforts to extricate himself the man bruised her fearfully with the heels of his boots. On the train was a woman traveling from the West with the body of her dead sister. Although badly bruised, and, notwithstanding her grief, she assisted actively in caring for the injured.

Sad News in Chicago. CHICAGO, Oct. 29 .- Commander Booth Tucker, who arrived in Chicago to-day, expecting to welcome his wife here, was prostrated by the shock of Mrs. Booth-Tucker's death. He was met at the railway station by Salvation Army officials and was taken in a carriage directly to headquarters. No mention of his wife's death was made on the way, however, and the newspapers were withheld from him. The arrangements were that Commander Tucker and wife were to meet here, Mrs. Tucker arriving from the West at about the same hour of her husband, and they were to have begun a ten days' campaign on Saturday night. Arriving at the headquarters, the commander asked for his wife, and expressed surprise that she had not met him. As gently as he could Colonel Sowton, in charge of the Chicago station,

"Commander, your wife is dead. She was killed in a wreck." Commander Booth staggered, raised his hand to his forehead and exclaimed: "God help me! is it true?" and fell in a swoon. Pitifully moaning and wringing his hands, he seemed for a time beside himself. He asked over and again if the statement was true, appearing unable to believe it. For an hour then he sat with his head bowed in his hands. As soon as he had revived sufficiently the telegram announcing the death of his wife was read The dispatch was from Ensign Dammes, secretary to Mrs. Booth-Tucker, and was dated Marceline, Mo., 1 a. m., and read as follows: "Consul passed from earth. Bringing her aboard same train for Chicago.'

At the Booth-Tucker Home.

NEW YORK, Oct. 29 .- Most touching was the scene in the home of Booth Tucker, at Mount Vernon, when the news was carried to seven small children by Brigadier Alice who has been most closely assoclated with Mrs. Booth-Tucker in her home and in her work. Gathering all about her, Mrs. Johnson told them that their mother had sone away to another world; that their father was sad and heart-sick far away and needed their sympathy and love. When their eyes were dried. Frederick and Catherine wrote in their own childish way a telegram to their father, telling him of the deep grief in the home and of the love of his children. The following telegram was received at the Salvation Army headquarters to-day from Mrs. Booth-Tucker's secretary, Ensign Hester Dammes, who was also on the train, but was not injured: "Consul passed from earth to heaven. Bringing body on board same train."

THE INQUEST. The inquest on Mabel Bechtel's death began in the mayor's courtroom at 8 o'clock this evening. The entire Bechtel family was present at the opening of the inquest. The questioning of witnesses was done by District Attorney E. J. Lichtenwalner. The first witness called was Dr. W. W. Ashbach, who assisted at the post-mortem examination of Miss Bechtel. He described the wounds and how the girl

David Weisenberg was called, and, when questioned, his attorney, Mr. Kline, objected because his answers might become incriminating, and asked that the witness be permitted to exercise his privilege. Weisenberg, however, testified that he was with Mabel on Sunday evening from 8 to 11 o'clock, and then left her at the door of her own home; did not see her after that and made no attempt to do so. He sent a note to her home by messenger at 9 o'clock Monday morning. The note read: "If you are at home I would like to see you." returned with the answer that Mabel was not at home. The witness never spoke to Eckstein. The latter stopped Miss Bechtel twice on the street when witness was with her and wanted to speak to her, but she refused each time. GRAIN DEALERS MEET.

Units After Dec. 1.

Special to the Indianapolis Journal. ANDERSON. Ind., Oct. 29 .- Prominent grain dealers from all the surrounding counties are in session here to-day as the Grain Dealers' Association. The dealers have found it practically impossible to secure cars in which to have their purchases moved. They formulated a resolution demanding the help of the railroad companies and the furnishing of cars with which to move grain. The present state of the market is such that dealers are not justified in buying grain and holding it for any ex-

The association also decided on a uniform price which the members pay for grain, out this was kept secret. After the 1st of December, however, all dealers in Madison, Randolph, Delaware, Hamilton, Hancock, Grant, Henry, Wayne and Marion counties will buy corn by the 100 pounds and not at stored My Health.

"A few years ago I had to submit to a surgical operation which caused me severe spinal trouble. After treatment I could not gain strength because of extreme nervousness. 1 took everything I could hear of that was supposed to be good for my trouble but all in vain. I had not had a night's sleep in weeks, when one day one of your circulars was thrown into our yard and after reading what your Nervine had done for others, I resolved to try it. The second night after taking it I slept soundly for the first time in many mon he and after taking a few bottles I was completely cured. I also used the Nerve Plaster for backache with very gratifying results. I shall always be grateful for the benefits received from Dr. Miles' Restor-ative Remedies."-Mrs. C. W. Beaman, Sa-

COUGHS UP BULLET.

Saves the Surgeons the Necessity of Making Incision in His Stomach. New York Telegram.

While Dr. Clarke, house surgeon of the Kings County Hospital, and an assistant were preparing to perform an operation to-day upon Theophilus Huston, a negro. race track, and who was shot in the abdomen last night by Edward Jones as the result of a quarrel at Fifteenth street and Mermaid avenue, Coney Island, Huston, who was on the operating table, was seized with a fit of coughing. The doctors were taking means to allay the irritation, when in a more violent paroxysm the bullet for which the surgeons were about to search, was expelled from the patient's mouth. Immediately Huston, who had been suffering greatly before, was relieved of pain and began to discuss the racing situation, offering several "tips" to the physicians. The wound, which gave every evidence of being similar in character to that which caused the death of the late President Mc-Kinley and seemed to necessitate an operation, the seriousness of which made recovery next to impossible, was treated in an entirely different manner from that planned. Instead of the dangerous incision which had been contemplated an antiseptic was applied and the wound sewed up by During this comparatively simple process Huston maintained his good spirits and advised Dr. Clarke to surely take his tip, as he would win without doubt, The quarrel which ended in the shooting of Huston was caused by a difference abou a young woman. The police say she aided Jones in the fight and struck Huston on

With Rare Presence of Mind She Stamps Out a Fire.

St. Louis Post-Dispatch. Little Esther Beckman, twelve years old, who lives in the rear of 914 North Eighth street, proved herself a heroine and saved from disaster a tenement house in which live about thirty children of assorted sizes Esther was left at home to keep house, for her father and two small brothers when her mother went to New Orleans to nurse her sister, Mrs. Ida Bliss, who is very ill Tuesday Esther was preparing the midday meal for her family on a gasoline stove on the rear porch on the second noor. She turned from the stove for an instant to perform some duty, and when she looked back the gasoline was blazing to the ceiling and the flames were beginning to lick at the woodwork. With rare presence of mind she pulled down a heavy curtain and threw it over the blaze. Then she dragged the stove into the middle of the porch away from danger. Close to the stove was a can of gasoline. It was already hot when she grasped it and threw it overboard into the courtyard

Meantime while she was stamping out the biaze she cried lustily for help and some one turned in a fire alarm. Before the fire department arrived the fire was out. The fire chief patted the little mother on the head and praised her for her bravery and presence of mind, tell-ing her that she had probably saved the lives of some of the little tots who thronged the verandas to get a glimose of her.
